Appliances for EMC Documentum Deployments, Easy as 1•2•3

With DCS VMware Appliances, EMC's Documentum can be deployed easy as; 1) acquire Documentum seats; 2) install DCS Appliances; 3) migrate content into repository ready to use.

Doylestown, PA., February 10, 2010 – Distributed Compliance Solutions LLC ('DCS') today announced they have packaged for sale VMware Appliances for a preconfigured Documentum Compliance Manager ('DCM'). This product is similar to the Appliances that DCS has validated and uses to deploy a new hosted customer for development or production in five days or less.

"This VMware solution has allowed DCS to have an environment ready for training in under a week when a new customer signs on for our hosted 21 CFR Part 11 repository services," noted Russell Serbagi, Managing Partner and Senior Architect of Distributed Compliance Solutions. Mr. Serbagi added "Having worked with Documentum since DCM was released in the late 1990s, I have always looked to speed deployments and this VMware solution allows me to do just that."

The preconfigured '1•2•3' product is running in the DCS hosted environment for customer preview. With taxonomies based on the DIA EDM Reference Model released last February, DCS's VMware 123 package is a good option for small firms ready to secure GxP, study or agency content. It is also a good method to get a DCM 6.5 development server running for early user input when planning a Documentum migration. The package includes VMware Appliances needed to deploy, MS Word templates for testing that includes; requirements, installation and operational test scripts, and a basic user training quick guide.

The DCS product can be deployed at the customer site without any further DCS services. DCS does offer; deployment, migration, administration, technical and help desk support as needed. DCS is working with customers on additional '1•2•3' offerings with VMware of deployments like Microsoft SharePoint and others.
