DCS and Moonbay Team with hosted offering of Controlled Content for building eCTD Submissions

DCS partners with Moonbay Technology with a Hosted Repository that is the Centralized Foundation of all Documentation and Data for eCTD Submissions

Doylestown, PA, June 4, 2010 – Distributed Compliance Solutions LLC ('DCS') has formed a key alliance with Moonbay Technology to host Moonbay's PIPELINE EDM™ 21 CFR Part 11 content repository and eCTD publishing. This partnership offers a single solution for content and data from studies, regulatory and agency publications in the life sciences industry so companies can focus on their goals, collaborate with partners, and bring products and services to market earlier.

"This exciting alliance allows us to focus on our individual areas of expertise. Moonbay's PIPELINE EDM transforms your documents to be submission-ready providing significant time and operational efficiency that can save months of labor-intensive compilation. While DCS provides the support for customer operations within a secure hosted environment that meets industry standards with Help Desk and training," says Laura Sherman, Managing Partner, DCS.

Based upon real-world experience within Pharma and Biotech companies, Moonbay Technology has developed a web-based application, PIPELINE EDM™, that has two seamlessly integrated components: regulatory document management and electronic publishing.

Jill Iacopi, Founder and CEO of Moonbay Technology stated "We are eager to combine our Pipeline EDM application with DCS's hosting environment and together we'll provide our clients with shorter deployment and faster milestone achievement."

DCS offers solutions based on the market-leading collaboration platforms such as PIPELINE EDM; Microsoft SQL Server; and a fully validated hosting facility with DCS. DCS hosting solutions offer an affordable monthly plan instead of a significant upfront investment; solutions can be deployed, in use in just a few weeks and DCS hosting facility is SAS-70 certified.
